Image and Communication Skills: Winning respect and credibility

Assistants are truly the backbone of an organization. But it's easy to feel overlooked, even ignored, in the rush of everyday business. The few "pats on the back" or positive strokes you do get make all the difference in the world to your attitude. In this session, you'll learn how to get more recognition for your good work ... and use this fuel to make even greater contributions on your job.

Communicate with confidence up and down the ladder

Here's your opportunity to look at your own communication style from a different perspective, develop new insight about yourself and focus on behaviors you want to alter.

Interpersonal communication skills—your secret weapon

This session sheds light on a form of psychological censorship that protects us from seeing ourselves the way we really are and offers frank insight into habits that hold us back.

Your professional image

What kind of image do you project? How can you change it to convey the message that you're competent and in control? Find out in this session.

Believe in yourself

Professional Development: Managing when the boss is away

Dealing with change

Dealing with chronically impossible people

Attend this session and get straightforward techniques, tested and proven effective in the business world, for getting problem personalities under control.

Everyday negotiation skills

If you're tired of getting the short end of the stick, you're ripe for this crash course on negotiation. And do you ever need it. Between the kids, the spouse, the vendors—even the boss—you can barely remember what it feels like to "have it your way." Practice these great new skills every day and before you know it, winning will become a habit.

Staying in sync with your boss

No two people are busier than the assistant and the boss. A constant avalanche of meetings, phone calls and deadlines leaves little time to talk—let alone communicate. Out of necessity, the most successful assistants have had to carve out their own ways of making the boss/assistant team work. You'll gain an hour's worth of their valuable insight in this session which you can use to give your boss/assistant relationship true lasting power
